North Central Elementary Receives $200,000 Grant

Kenneth G. McCarty, Hancock County Superintendent of Education, has received notification that Hancock North Central Elementary School has been awarded a Title III ESBA operational grant of approximately $200,000.

The project OPERATION, RIDE (Rural Innovations in Developmental Education) is geared to teach each child at his present education level, helping him to achieve his maximum potential through modified grouping plus a one-to-one ratio in individual, independent study and instruction. Mrs. Earl Ramond, principal of the Hancock North Central Elementary School, has been named Project Director.

A continuous curriculum, environmentally oriented, will be developed for grades one through six in all areas of instruction through teacher workshops to be held in July and August. These workshops will feature guest specialists to lead the faculty toward implementing the use of such an environmentally oriented curriculum.

The children begin with familiar backgrounds as bases for their knowledge. Hopefully this will result in a positive attitude toward school and a changing self-concept.

Use of a HUB (media center), outdoor classrooms, and construction of a campus nature trail are planned to provide interest and stimulate participation.

Triggered by an innovative plan of grouping children (according to their environmental background) by Ed LeVasseur, Federal Funds Coordinator, and spearheaded by Mrs. Rebekah Kennedy, Guidance Counselor at HNC, the program was co-authored by Mrs. Mrs. Ramond and Mrs. Kennedy.

According to McCarty, it is believed that this is the largest single grant ever received by any school in Hancock County. Work on the project will begin in July.

James Volvedich, Attendance Center Principal at Hancock North Central, stated that the children will have a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to receive individualized instruction in a public school setting and that he is proud that HNC will be the target of much national interest as the project develops.

DEPARTMENTS MOVED

Both the Bay St. Louis First and Second Police Departments have moved to the new police building in the East wing of the building and the police department offices are in the rear of the West wing.

The police department has a new phone number, 467-9221, as well as the old one listed in the phone book. Residents may call both numbers for emergencies.

The fire department phone number, 467-5151, has not changed.

BOARD MEMBER

Mrs. Arnette Giles, winner of the 1971 Individual National Volunteer Award, has been named to the board of the National Center for Voluntary Action.

Mrs. Giles was one of 25 mother members throughout the United States named to the board. The NCVA is headquartered in Washington, D.C.

Activities To Focus On Library

Announcements in churches in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and throughout all of Hancock County on Sunday April 16 will signal the start of National Library week which is being celebrated throughout the entire United States with the single purpose of making everyone aware of the importance of libraries.

On April 16 in the evening the annual dinner will be held at the Bay St. Louis Hotel.

At 11 a.m. on Monday Miss Mary Love, Director of the Mississippi Library Commission in Jackson will have an informal meeting with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to fill them in on the state's thinking concerning libraries.

On Friday the Bookmobile will be on display at the Kline and on Saturday the Bookmobile will be on display at the Winn-Dixie store and in front of the Food Discount Center.

Throughout the week informal discussions will be held on the importance of the library and on the need for better facilities. Actually the Board of Trustees was told of tentative plans for a new library building to be built on Highway 90.

Also on tap for Monday is a recorder recital at the library in Bay St. Louis at 11 a.m. of 16th century music played on ancient 15th century instruments by the Gulf Coast Consortium.

The group was started about four years ago by Harry Spell, former Music Director at Gulf Coast College and is primarily interested in old music played on recorders. Other consortium members include Bill Glean, Helen Glean, George and

Earth Resources Lab At MTF

The Earth Resources Laboratory at NASA's Mississippi Test Facility in Hattiesburg is geared to develop research techniques for the application of space technology in earth resource management.

Although the laboratory is new, it has been in operation for some time. The laboratory is located in the Hattiesburg Test Facility, which is a part of the NASA's Mississippi Test Facility. The NP2A is used at an altitude of 10,000 feet, the NC1003 at a maximum of 20,000 and the larger, twin-jet RB77 allows testing to altitudes of 60,000 feet, with flight times up to seven hours. The jet has been made available to the Earth Resources Program by the U.S. Air Force and is equipped with an instrument carrying payload attached to the underside of the fuselage.

No injuries were reported when an automobile, driven by Mrs. Florence Lary, of Bay St. Louis, collided with a motorcycle ridden by John O. Pfeiffer, also of Bay St. Louis, Thursday about 8:40 p. m. According to Police Chief Bill Carbonette and investigating Ptm. Emmett Ellis, the accident occurred near the Lill General Store on De Monthurin St. and Highway 90.

Both automobiles were damaged when a 1970 pickup truck collided with a 1971 Ford Torino Friday about 10 p. m. at the intersection of Kellar and Hancock streets. Investigating officer Douglas Williams cited Steve Carver of Bay St. Louis, driver of the truck, and Mike McGinty, driver of the Ford, for traffic violations.

A two-car collision at the intersection of Union and Second streets Monday night resulted in minor damage to both cars and no injuries. Police officer Williams listed the drivers as Miss Barbara Kenner, driver of a 1970 Ford Maverick and Mrs. Miriam Carbonette, driving a 1963 Ford. Both women are Bay St. Louis residents.

A blue E-Z chain saw was reported stolen from a truck Friday about 7:45 p. m., by Lowery Turner, of 108 Felicity St. Officer Williams is investigating the theft.

Harris Boudreaux said a rear door of the lounge had been broken open. Nothing in the lounge was disturbed nor was anything reported missing.

Saturday, police received a report from a South Beach Blvd. resident of a white boat adrift about a half mile into the Sound. The call was referred to Bay Civil Defense Director J. R. Lavole who sent a privately owned boat to bring the smaller, unpowered boat. Owner of the recovered boat was not identified.

Cason To Manage Center

The Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration announced today the appointment of Oils A. Cason, 46, of Pascagoula, Miss., as Manager of its Gulf Coast Regional Center in Bay St. Louis, Miss.

The NOAA facility is part of the National Oceanographic Instrumentation Center with headquarters in Washington, D. C. The facility's primary purpose is to provide engineering support for the National Data Buoy program and to serve the oceanographic community of the Gulf region.

The Regional Center, established last February, works closely with the National Data Buoy Center. Both facilities are part of NOAA's National Ocean Survey and are located at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Mississippi Test

Initial cost of the engineering facilities being developed at the Gulf Coast Regional Center totals approximately $2 million. They will be used to test, evaluate and calibrate electronic equipment and systems related to a wide variety of national oceanographic programs. Cason, the center's first manager, will supervise the preparation of engineering test plans and procedures for operating the facilities.

Cason has served since 1961 with the U. S. Naval Oceanographic Office in Washington, D. C. During the

Commentary

by Susan Irby

by Susan Irby

There is a distinctive depressive stupor which overcomes a person who very confidently attempts to exhibit his dog's tricks only to have the dog play dumb. The feeling may also result when a magic trick flops or a baby who has been chattering incessantly for the past five hours refuses to utter a sound to his father who has called long distance from Adak, Alaska, to hear his son's first words.

That same feeling is too often realized by the journalist when his camera flash does not go off in sequence with his camera. Nothing is so deafening as the sound of a shutter's click without the accompaniment of a flash.

Picture a reporter in a city council meeting as a group of irate citizens are approaching the aldermen's bench to register their opinions on a controversial issue. The reporter walks from his desk to a convenient position to get the picture and in doing so he gets a large audience as the complaining group. Then comes the moment when a member of the group with clenched fist verbally attacks the council while his body wrenches with every word. There's the snap and the photo-reporter has a beautifully black negative which he might caption and hope the reader from the caption visualizes what is not there.

The alternative is to run the story without the picture and write an editorial on the paper's new policy to eliminate wasted space caused by pictures and to turn strictly to type to transmit the news.

Still, once the reporter has deduced that he is not going to get his picture, he must shake his frustrations and attempt to save face before the council and the citizens. Even though he knows he's not getting the picture, he tries to convince spectators he did get some shots and hopes his audience will assume he did not use the pictures as a result of editorial discretion.

The reporter is best able to accomplish his charade of picture taking by positioning himself in close proximity to the competing medium's photographer and snapping his camera simultaneously with the other photographer's flash.

Several complications, however, are likely to arise from this deception such as an interested bystander who drops by the newspaper office to obtain a copy of the picture. Often times a photographer may be beaten in vain by a citizen who did not want to be photographed and refused to believe so obviously false a story as that no pictures were made.

And, so, with this violent thought comes the end of a third chapter in the continuing story of the reporter. This reporter will pause at least long enough for the reader to pat himself on the back for not being the reporter. In the meantime, another group of professionals will be unearthing for scrutiny as Commentary next week presents Ma Bell and the Operators: 'The Gang Who Couldn't Dial Straight!'

very possible, to prevent further destruction of natural resources through the ravages of civilization.

A list of just a few of the earth survey objectives illustrates the potentials which could be of inestimable value to this area alone.

In the agriculture and forestry field, we can improve planning and marketing with crop census and yield estimates; increase yield by determining soil characteristics; reduce losses by identification of disease and infestation.

In oceanography, we can improve fishing productivity by locating biologically rich areas and cold water upwellings; improve ship routing by detection of navigational hazards; locating oil seeps.

A study in hydrology can identify new sources of fresh water; monitor health and other characteristics of lakes and rivers; identify and evaluate pollution; monitor coastal and river sedimentation changes.

Possibly the most valuable aspect of all will be the opportunity to understand our physical geography in order to improve and maintain urban and rural development.

"LIBRARY ACTIVITIES"

plans for a new library in Waveland. Although less than a year old, the present library in the Waveland City Hall literally is bursting at the seams. One plan is to include a library building if and when federal funds are approved to build a civic center on the grounds now occupied by the Waveland school. The land and the building reverts back to Waveland when the new Waveland school is opened and becomes a working part of the Bay-Waveland school district.

Plans also are being discussed for a new library at Bay St. Louis as soon as state funds are made available. Hancock County is close to the top of the list to receive state construction funds in the foreseeable future.

RETIRED PERSONS

Plans are underway to organize a Hancock County Chapter of American Association of Retired Persons. All persons age 55 and over are eligible. The first meeting will be held at the Valena C. Jones School, Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis, on April 17, at 10 a.m. All are invited to come to the meeting and to bring friends, in order to learn some of the benefits of AARP membership.

There is no obligation to join. Permanent officers will be elected at a meeting at Valena C. Jones School on Monday, May 15, at 10 a.m. Thereafter, meetings are expected to be held on the third Monday of each month in the same location.

Community Mental Health

BY RAY COXE

COASTAL MENTAL HEALTH CLINIC

Of all the factors to be considered in evaluating readiness for school, intellectual readiness has probably received the greatest attention. Intellectual growth has also generated more conflicting points of view among educators, psychologists, and parents than any other area of child development.

bright and to do well in their school work. However, in the group of children who will begin school next fall all levels of ability and achievement will be represented. As a result, while we try to encourage each child's natural ability and eagerness to learn we must also recognize and accept his limitations.

Jean Piaget, a contemporary Swiss psychologist who has spent over fifty years working with and observing children, has contributed substantially to our general understanding of children's intellectual growth. He emphasizes that all children pass through four basic stages of intellectual development. A basic familiarity with these stages and recognition of the level at which an individual is functioning can be of great value to a teacher in evaluating a child's capacity. Piaget's observations reflect that a child learns best through his own gradual discovery of how his world and the things in it work. However, we can help our children become ready for the formal learning experiences of school by providing numerous and varied opportunities for experimentation and observation. There are several ways in which parents can help a child in his intellectual development, or more specifically, his capacity for thinking, knowing, perceiving, remembering, recognizing, abstracting, and generalizing. It is important to realize that a child's intellectual development is not a linear process, but rather a complex one that involves many factors.

allow him to take responsibility for such decisions. As a child takes on more responsibility he develops his self-confidence and his ability to solve problems. The parent who consistently intervenes in the child's decision-making or over-involves himself in the child's experiences is undermining his child's self-confidence.

Playing with such things as paints, clay, and tools provides the opportunity for observations about relationships, cause, and effects. Encouraging a child to verbally express his observations gives him a background for school recitations. Reading aloud, rhymes, word games, and singing can provide an interest in words that will help in learning to read.

Cutter Eagle To Visit Gulf South Area

The world famous training barque EAGLE, the only square-rigger actively sailing under the American flag, will visit the Gulf of Mexico this summer. The Coast Guard Academy's cadet training vessel will sail from New London, Conn. in late May and arrive at Mobile, Alabama, her first port of call on the Gulf, on June 2, 1972.

After a four-day stay in Mobile, EAGLE will again set sail for the Port of New Orleans, arriving on June 8. Another four-day stop is planned in the Crescent City before the cutter will again set sail for Galveston, Texas. On June 16, EAGLE will arrive in Galveston with plans to leave for New London on the 19th. The public will be invited to tour the training ship during her port visits.

EAGLE is as rare sight in the space age, but square-riggers still belly to the wind, wooden blocks still creak, halyards slap against tall masts and the quarterdeck is an honest location. For many bluewater sailors, this 295-foot, three-masted barque is one of the finest examples of this fast disappearing "splendid anachronism."

The EAGLE, originally named the Horst Wessel, was built in 1936 by Blohm and Voss in Hamburg, Germany. She served as a German naval training ship and then a cargo ship during World War II. After the war, the U. S. Coast Guard claimed her as a war reparation. EAGLE has been a cadet training vessel at the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn. since 1946.

The Gulf trip is only the beginning of a busy summer for the Coast Guard training ship. In late July a cruise will be set for Germany and the European continent.

The cities of Kiel and Lubeck, Germany, in conjunction with the Organizing Committee for the Games of the XXth Olympiad, Munich 1972, have invited all the sail training ships throughout the world to rally on the occasion of the Olympic Sailing Trials. This rally, under the name of "Operation Sail Lubeck-Kiel 1972", is to be opened by two initial regattas of the Sail Training Association. Participants will assemble at Cuxhaven, Isle of Wight (Great Britain) and Mariehamn, Aaland (Finland) and race to Skagen and Falsterbo, (DENMARK) respectively. An assembly of the contestants in these events will occur at Malmö, Sweden, where the fleets from the Atlantic North Sea race will join with the Baltic Sea fleet and sail in company to Lubeck. A parade of the sail training ships in the western Baltic Sea will be included in the scheduled events.

Given under my hand and official seal of office, this 3rd day of April, 1972.

Seems like winter just won't leave. Another cold front reached this area over the weekend. The thermometer was 42 degrees early Sunday morning with a warming trend during the afternoon and again cooler at night. Bass fishing has improved but the fish will not strike surface baits. They are hitting under water lures better. With plenty of perch being caught on earth worms and other live bait.

Salt water fishing is also improving. Some speckles, red fish, croakers, etc., are being caught out front and along the HI-way bridge.

Some soft crabs were gotten last week by those going after them. Cotton Blaise was down for a couple days visit. He reported getting quite a few two nights. That is the good news soft crabs have been waiting for. Looks like soft crabbing time has arrived. That cold weather effects everything. Catching soft crabs is easy. Only a little know how and patience is needed. A Coleman or other light is a must.

John Ducote and son, John, Jr., like to fish in the pond in front of their house when not cutting grass. They will be busy from now on doing both. The grass will grow and the fish will bite. They live in Route 2, Bay St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. James Vlasaty are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gladys Hennessey at Mokena, Illinois. They expect to do some fishing while away.

Gregory Thomas and wife of Kansas City, Mo., have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Thomas. They did some fishing while here. Caught their share of the finny tribe. Greg said it was good to be back home for a while.

Bill Favre of Waveland was talking about the Black fish he used to catch in outside waters. Black fishing is a gone art. Never hear of anyone catching them anymore. Black fish would lay in the shade of small pine trees placed in the water of floating boards. They were caught on slaughter poles or casting rods using dead shrimp. They were of good size and an eating delicacy. Many of our old timers fished for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Griffin of Waveland are getting ready to go after soft crabs. Each summer they get their share of the delicious eating delicacy. Joe admits the minus is better than he is at finding them. Crabbing should improve right along.

Philys Folse of Thibodeaux, La., but now a hair dresser and fisherman of Waveland was bragging about the big sail fish he caught recently at Acapulco, Mexico. Not bragging but reminiscing he said.

Was interesting talking to Bobby Bing, (R.T.) Radiological Technologist at Methodist Hospital in New Orleans. Bobby lived in Bay St. Louis, attended Bay High, was a reporter for the "Student Points" and "Jr. Newman Club" papers which were set by Yours Truly way back. Bobby had an article published in The International Journal of X-Ray Technicians in 1960 on Scaphoid Fractures. He claimed the article was the result of the won by Jack Nicklaus Sunday journalistic training received afternoon. Was glad to see Bobby.

Pass Christian-Hes Golf Course was a busy place over the weekend. Golfers were seen everywhere. Some were even sitting in the Club House watching the final of the Masters Fractures. He claimed the article was the result of the won by Jack Nicklaus Sunday journalistic training received afternoon. Was glad to see Bobby.

afternoon. Was glad to see Bobby.

afternoon. Was glad to see Bobby.

Spence and Sidney Prague among the many. Cary and Sidney are active members of the club for a long duration.

Enjoying a foursome for 18 holes were Jack Solak, Russell Elliott, Luke Elliott and their dad, Yours Truly. The match finished all even. Russell is the newly elected president of the club. The course is in excellent shape. Lee Knight is the home pro. Memberships are always solicited. Try playing golf, you will like it. Have been playing for 56 years.

Had plenty guests over the weekend. Was more like a housewarming. There were Luke Elliott and Sue, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Enterante, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Daniels and four sons, Mr. and Mrs. Dan B. Haggerty and children, Dan Jr., and family, and Miss Mary Joe Komonowski. The men folks are planning to come over soon to do some fishing, crabbing, flounder, etc.

Good news: Bob and Nell Dalstrom are presently living at Henderson Point. They are planning to live in Bay St. Louis where their friends are numerous. They want to take up fishing as an added past time.

About time for Tony Enterante, Luke Elliott and Kenny Elliott to make a fishing trip to Leesville, La. The big red fish and speckles will be at their best in May. They have been fishing in this area for years. Kenny is a brother from Monroe, La.

Fishing in Ted Lyman's and Dr. Dodson's lakes is on the wane right now. The lakes are shallow and too much grass is the cause.

Kenneth McCarty and Alden Mauffray caught their share of perch and bass Sunday. They were using fly rods.

Ben Mutter and Bob Von Ehren are fishing partners. Haven't been fishing for sometime. Wonder why? Ben is anxious to do some soft crabbing. Lets go sometime, Ben.

Theo Tudury is a patient in Hancock General Hospital. Latest report is that he is doing nicely.

Judge and Mrs. Dan M. Russell Jr. had with them for the weekend their son Brian from L.S.U. Their daughter Dale of Metairie, La. visited with them earlier this week.

Theo Tudury Jr. and son Scott of Morgan City, La., have returned home after a visit with his parents.

Mrs. J.A. Evans, formerly of Bay St. Louis, has moved from Tupelo, Miss., to Laurel, Miss., where she is making her home at North View Villa Retirement Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Stanley hosted a cocktail party Saturday night at their summer home in Clermont Harbor honoring Miss Judy McCubbin.

For Anyone, Anytime — A Cassette Recorder

Those spring-summer months loaded with gift occasions are headed this way and if you're stuck for an idea, why not consider the versatile portable cassette recorder?

A lightweight, easy-to-use cassette recorder is a natural for Mother's Day, for instance. She can toss away those tattered old recipe cards and transfer everything to cassette tapes. And when her favorite television chef begins to go faster than her pencil, the recorder captures every word, bad jokes and all.

Then there's Father's Day. If Dad's a businessman, the portable cassette is ideal for dictation and it's a lot easier to carry home or on business trips than a dictating machine. He can even talk into it while driving to and from work.

For the high school graduate, especially if he or she is off to college in the fall, it's a perfect gift. Some teachers now recommend cassettes for taping lectures, freeing the student to concentrate on what is being said. If that student happens to be your child, the cassette also offers a relatively painless way for him or her to keep you posted through "talking letters." And, if you have someone in the service, you may get more frequent communications if he has a cassette recorder.

The possibilities are almost endless. They can be given as presents to newlyweds, to ushers by the groom, to kids off to summer camp, to friends off on a European jaunt — even to yourself.

Basically, the cassette recorder resembles a miniature version of a large, open-reel recorder. What General Electric and other manufacturers have done is shrink the reels and the tape, then tuck them into a small plastic container. You never touch the tape. Just pop the cassette into an opening in the recorder, punch a button and talk into the microphone. When you want to hear what you said, press another button to rewind the tape then punch the play button. That's all there is to it.

Before you decide on a model, however, look for the following important features:

1. Two-way power. A recorder's versatility is enhanced if it can be played on both batteries and household current. Plugging it into an outlet while it's being played at home saves the batteries for use outside. Some models, like GE's ME450, feature three-way power, allowing operation from a car cigarette lighter using an optional adapter.

2. Automatic shut-off. This feature automatically stops the machine at the end of the tape, whether it's being used for playback or recording. You don't have to keep your eye on the tape every minute.

3. Push-button operation. Buttons for record, rewind, forward, play, and stop functions simplify operations. You're not as likely to miss something you want on tape if you don't have to fuss with non-button controls.

4. Carrying case. This makes it a lot easier to carry around and also gives you a place to stow the microphone, line cord and extra cassettes.

All these features can be found in the GE ME450 which also has a slide-out handle that tucks away when the recorder is in use, a cassette selection system and built-in automatic level control.

Your golden opportunity!

Nutrition And Cereals

Breakfast cereals are an American food! The first was developed in this country about the turn of the century. They are used in about 85% of the homes; eaten in over one-third of all American breakfasts. Yet, nutritional facts about this popular food are often overlooked.

Are cereals nutritious? Yes. Cereals are important natural sources of thiamine, niacin and iron. They provide carbohydrates, supply protein and are low in fat. Today, breakfast cereals can be nutritionally classified as Whole Grain or Restored, High Vitamin, and High Protein. All provide essential nutrients but the shopper has a choice as to the amount of added nutrients she prefers.

What does whole grain or restored mean?

Whole grain cereals contain all parts of the grain and all naturally present nutrients in the grain. A restored cereal has had thiamine, niacin and iron added to replace any of these nutrients lost during processing.

What vitamins do high vitamin cereals contain?

In addition to the nutrients naturally present in cereals, the High Vitamin cereals usually contain added amounts of vitamin B<sub>1</sub> (thiamine), B<sub>2</sub> (riboflavin), B<sub>6</sub>, B<sub>12</sub>, and niacin. Many have vitamins A, C and D, as well. Iron is also added to help provide this nutrient which is deficient in many diets.

Today, about three out of every four cereals contain at least a third of the recognized daily needs of key vitamins in a one-ounce serving. Some provide 100%. Information about added vitamins and iron can be found on each package.

What are high-protein cereals?

High protein cereals contain substantially more protein than the 9% average of most other breakfast cereals. Generally, these cereals are also fortified with additional vitamins and iron.

Are man-made vitamins added to cereals as good as natural vitamins?

A vitamin has the identical chemical composition whether it is man-made or is present naturally in foods. For example, thiamine (vitamin B<sub>1</sub>) produced by grains is identical to thiamine made in the laboratory. The human body knows only the chemical composition and, therefore, vitamins from both sources are utilized in the same way.

Why should cereals be included in the diet?

They are nutritious, supplying needed vitamins, minerals, carbohydrates and protein. They are low in calories and fat - important factors in many American diets. Breakfast cereals fit today's life styles. People spend less time preparing breakfast and need convenient, easy-to-fix foods that taste good and provide needed nutrients.

Scouts Looking Forward To New Camp

Vee-Bar Ranch, the name of a future Boy Scout Camp which will be located in Hancock County will allow camping to become a reality for all boys.

The 1500-acre tract of land near the Sellers Community was purchased early in 1971 by the New Orleans Area Council of Boy Scouts of America.

The vast acreage—mostly gently rolling land with elevations to 200 feet—offers ample space for outpost camping and wildlife study. On the basis of projected growth figures the new Scout Reservation will serve the needs of area Scouts for the next 30 to 40 years.

Troop camping will be emphasized in the new camp, the boys will sleep in two-man tents. Food will be issued to troops for their own cooking—an important part of a Scout's training and experience.

Major features planned for the new camp include A 100-acre spring-fed lake to permit a complete boating and swimming program; 14 troop sites with sanitation facilities and central showers; troop service building with trading post and commissary; health lodge; outdoor chapel for all faiths; 6 activity shelters for inclement weather use; camp Ranger's House and Office; and an outpost camping area.

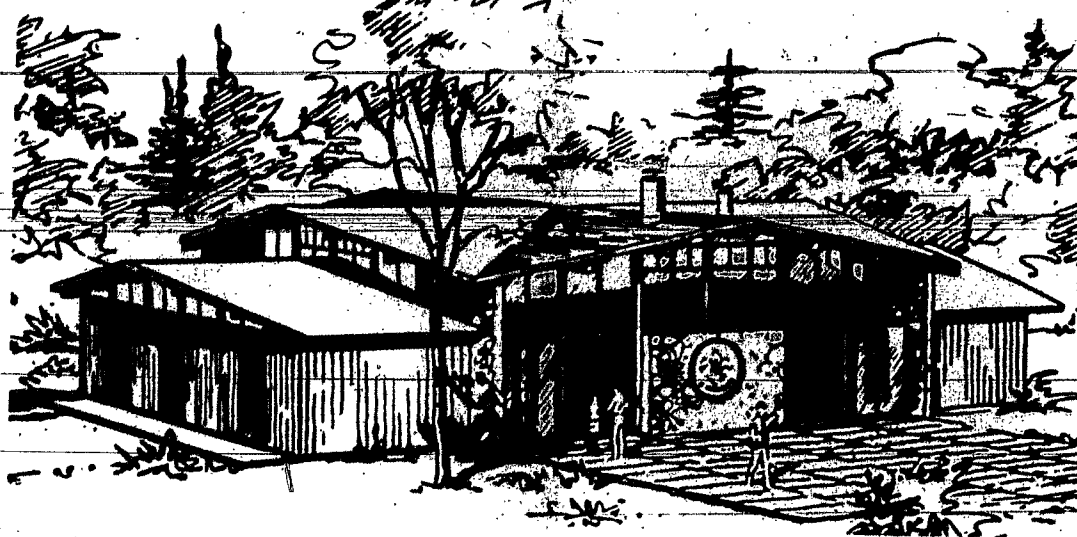

The minimum estimated cost for land, site development, construction and related financing totals $1,350,000. In order to raise these funds and to insure the upgrading of the Scout camping experience for increasing numbers of Scouts, the Executive Board has launched a capital funds campaign with a minimum need goal of $1,350,000.

A local Scout Camp Development Drive is underway under the direction of Norton Haas Sr. Members of the committee are calling on local businessmen, merchants and service organizations for contributions. Committee members include Dave McDonald, Dr. Charles Dunlap, YuVonne Melton, Robert Wyatt, Jr., Art Spencer, Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver, J.P. Compretta, Terry Feeney, Al Bernard, Paul White, James Necaise, Jim McCarthy and Dr. J.D. Rutherford III.

THE NATION'S STRENGTH

"I know three things must always be To keep a nation strong and free. One is a hearthstone bright and dear, With busy, happy loved ones near One is a ready heart and hand To love and serve and keep the land. One is a worn and beaten way To where the people go to pray. So long as these are kept alive, Nation and people will survive. God keep them always, everywhere The hearth, the flag, the place of prayer."

Route No. 1 will start at 7:00 a.m. on Mondays and Thursdays from State Street
heading North.

Please Note

It will be necessary for residents in all starting areas to have containers out by 7:00 a.
m. starting time. No backtracking will be done for garbage put out after collection has been made - so get it out early.

Containers will be galvanized or plastic with tight-fitting covers.
Plastic bags of heavy gauge will be permitted; however, plastic bags of light gauge will not be permitted. These light bags easily torn cause health hazards and add greatly to litter on our streets.

If garbage is not collected on designated days due to unforeseen circumstances such as equipment breakdowns, collections will be attempted to be made on following days, on week days. No garbage will be collected on Saturdays unless of dire emergency. Any further change in schedule will be published in the Sea Coast Echo.

We are attempting to equalize each of the four routes with better and more efficient service in mind. Your cooperation as to type of container and depositing of containers in time for collection will be greatly appreciated. Please remove containers from view following collection.
